The xml docbook source code generated (and provided in each case) by SQLServerReports has been transformed in pdf, ps and chm thanks to xalan and hhc, and Norman Walsh Docbook stylesheets. To be able to perform the transformation yourself, you need a proper fop install, or libxslt, or any xml parser.

This project tools can also be useful for db support, by providind these scripts to a remote user, and then get back an helpfully readable report instead of having to ask the user to browse all db server contents like table structures, filegroups, ...
